Hold

As a service to customers, the Library allows holds to be placed on most items. This ensures that customers will have access to an item once it is available.

- To ensure timeliness and efficiency in the holds service, the Library limits the number of active holds an individual may have at one time. This limit is reviewed regularly.
- The act of placing a hold on an item does not guarantee availability of the item within a specific timeframe.

- Customers can expect to wait a few days on available items before they are ready for checkout due to processing and delivery.
- Customers cannot place holds on Express materials.
